PRODUCT DESCRIPTION

This distinguished William IV writing desk exemplifies the bold elegance and refined craftsmanship of early 19th-century British design. Constructed from richly grained mahogany, the desk features a tooled leather writing surface framed by a molded edge, offering both luxury and practicality.

Characteristic of the period, the desk stands on turned legs with brass castors—adding a sense of grandeur while ensuring functionality. The leather top has been restored but retains its original patina. The desk can be re-polished in the original style, by a specialist, on customer request (charged at cost).
